This BIP will run as a Summer School and focuses on Technical Communication, a transversal competence that is essential for the effective use of products and services. In today's digital and technological context, technical communication has become an increasingly important professional field, driven by the need to provide users with clear, accessible, and valuable information.

The programme offers a balanced combination of theory and practice, comprising approximately 30 contact hours in a laboratory environment. During the first part of the week, participants will attend four core workshops delivered by experienced national and international technical communicators. In the second part, they will work on a hands-on project, creating documentation for a real product. Throughout this process, participants will receive mentoring and will be evaluated by an international panel of technical communication professionals.

This course is aimed at students who value clear and unambiguous communication, regardless of their academic or professional background. The programme is also supported by established international cooperation.

Important Info:

- Before applying, talk to your International Office and make sure you can attend the complete period of the mandatory 5 days of the face-to-face course.
- Applications from the partner universities will have priority.
- Porto Accounting and Business School doesn't provide students' accommodation, which you will need to find and book on your own. However, we are more than willing to supply you with informative links that will help you find affordable alternatives.

What else can we say to convince you?

The vibrant city of Porto, in Portugal, offers an unforgettable experience for students seeking both academic and cultural enrichment. With its dynamic student community and vivid landscapes, Porto is the perfect destination for an inspiring and memorable Erasmus.
